On the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Puget Sound Repeater Group, the Western Washington Amateur Relay Association would like to extend warmest congratulations to PSRG for 50 years of service to the amateur radio community in Western Washington.

While we often think about their coverage, height or transmitter power, it is the community associated with a repeater and their level of activity which truly differentiate repeaters from one another.

The WW7PSR repeater provided a reliable meeting place for many through the COVID pandemic. That was extended through AllStarlink and EchoLink to far corners of the globe, allowing amateurs to connect, share the love for our hobby and to help brighten someone else's day.

PSRG members and their community are recognized for outstanding engagement in hosting three daily nets at 9am, noon and 9pm, providing their repeater for the daily Puget Sound Boater's Net and partnering with the Seattle Auxiliary Communication Service on emergency communications. It is perhaps the most active repeater in Western Washington.
